To employees of Digital Future:

Digital Future Voice and Data has been our interconnect company for the last five years. During this time we have received impeccable service from your company at every level.

The sales representatives have always worked hard to provide us with the most viable solutions to satisfy all of our requirements and the technicians have always been prompt, professional and very knowledgeable.

In November 2005, we had to move our office to a new location. This was very cumbersome, time sensitive and a complex commission. We required the installation of more than fifty new voice and data cables with jacks. This project was led by our sales representative, Rick Vukadinovich and technician Paul Bowie, who undertook responsibility for the assignment. All work was done to our full satisfaction and we were more than pleased.

Above all, the actual move and programming of the telephone and voice mail system was done on time, with full attention in every possible detail, resulting in a seamless and smooth transition for our company to a new and larger location.

IMI International would strongly recommend Digital Future Voice and Data to any company in search of a dependable, professional and experienced telephone equipment and interconnect service provider.
